

March 27
11:15 to
12:15

Dr. Corey Anton
Grand Valley State University

Should Communication Be Disciplined?

Dr. Anton's talk is part of the Inaugural Purdue Graduate Student Conference on Communication Research, Intersections of Perspectives in Communication Scholarship. More information about the Conference is available at www.isours.cgsa.org

More information about Dr. Anton and his research is available on his website <http://faculty.gvsu.edu/antonc>.

At the Hall for Discovery and
Learning Research,

Discovery Park,

Purdue University

Corey Anton (PhD, Purdue University, 1998) is Associate Professor of Communication Studies at Grand Valley State University. He is author of Selfhood and Authenticity (SUNY Press) and of the forthcoming book, Sources of Significance: Worldly Rejuvenation and Neo-Stoic Heroism (Purdue University Press) and the Edited collection, Valuation and Media Ecology: Ethics, Morals and Laws. Past Chair of the Semiotics and Communication Division of the NCA, he is currently completing his term as Editor of the journal Explorations in Media Ecology. He serves on the Editorial Boards of The Atlantic Journal of Communication and Time and Society. He is a Fellow of the International Communicology Institute, and serves on the Board of Directors for the Media Ecology Association and on Board of Trustees for the Institute of General Semantics.

The PGSCCR is an initiative of:

{CGSA} @ PURDUE
Communication Graduate Student Association